

Question: How are the developers of universal gravitation and theory of relativity related to each other?

Answer: The developers of universal gravitation and the theory of relativity are Isaac Newton and Albert Einstein. They are both foundational figures in the development of physics. Isaac Newton and Albert Einstein both contributed hugely to our understanding of gravity, but the two theories have some fundamental differences...